Janice knows that college will mean she must do quite a bit of reading and some note-taking. She has never had very good concentration for reading things other than magazines for pleasure, and has not taken notes in a very long time. However, Janice is determined to do well in school and be a positive role model for her family.